My Dad, before his passing, accepted Jesus Christ as his Savior.

Acts 16:31 "Believe in the Lord Jesus; you and your household will be saved."

My Family, Experiencing God's Love & Care

I was born in Laoag City, Ilocos Norte, Philippines. I was the youngest among our eight siblings.

At his very young age, my father, Que Chu (郭永珠), started working in our family's store in Laoag City. In his 30's he started doing business with the government. He constructed the roads and bridges, including the Gilbert Bridge of our hometown Laoag.

My dad saw the great demand for new construction. So, in 1939, together with his nephew, Lorenzo Que Vidar and Calisto Agbayani, incorporated AGVID Construction Co., Inc.

Among the projects, there are at least one or two that you may have seen and some that you may even have owned or still own: The Cultural Centre of the Philippines, Department of Foreign Affairs Building, Medical Centre of Manila, MWSS Reservoir, World Health Organization Building, PLDT Buildings, Ramon Magsaysay Center, San Miguel Corporation, Coca Cola Production Plant, SM Convention Center, Hope Christian High, Chiang Kai Shek High, Philippine Cultural High, Santo Tomas University, St. Jude, St. Scholastic, Seng Guan Buddhist Temple, Iglesia ni Cristo, Chapel of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saint, and the foundation for the headstones of the U.S. Military Cemetery at Fort McKinley, Rizal. The Quirino Bridge in Ilocos Sur, Plaridel Bridge, and Malong Bridge in Pangasinan, Magat Batu Bridge, Nueva Viscaya, Vargas Bridge in Rizal, Quezon Bridge, San Juan Bridge in Manila, Calumpit Bridge in Bulacan, the Tamontaka Bridge in Cotabato, Tairace Tunnel, Ambuklao Project and more.

AGVID Construction Co., Inc. has completed over 700 projects for the Philippine government and some private owners and has grown to become one of the industry's top leaders with thousands of employees.

My father's life motto was integrity with a positive work attitude. In his time, my father was the Chairman of The Que's Family Association. He loved his family very much. He also sent financial support to his relatives in Yong Ling, Fujian province.

I was born when my parents were in their elderly years. They thought well & care for my future. At that time, to build a decent house, 5,000 pesos was enough. My dad bought an insurance policy of 20,000 pesos for me.

My dad invested heavily in his business in the Philippines and deposited a large sum of his earnings in China. My father's private chauffeur would come every morning to bring him to work. His barber will do home service for his hair. We had maids, one for cleaning, one for cooking, and one for doing laundry. Life was good.

My dad, because of his work, spent so much time on the road. He wanted to be sure that all his projects were done correctly by the contract. He would have a simple lunch with mangoes on rice & vegetable. He did not care much about his health.

My father got so sick at age 62, and many friends & relatives came to visit. Some suggested different healing methods, including asking the monk to write some words in a piece of paper to be burned to ashes and drink it. According to my eldest sister Juanita who was 19 year old, at that critical stage of my father's illness, Wong Chun Seng, my dad's best friend, would visit my dad at the hospital every afternoon at 4:00 punctually. He shared the gospel of Jesus Christ to my dad.

Wong Chun Seng was the first principal of Chiang Kai Shek High School. He is a relative of Co Guat Hua, an elder of the Philippines United Evangelical Church. They all prayed together for and with my family. By God's mercy & grace, my father accepted Jesus Christ as his Lord and Savior. Pastor George Chua Sin Chiong did the baptism for my dad.

The following morning, when my dad woke up, he told my mom that he saw a stairway leading to a very bright place in his sleep, but there was the last step that was still missing. The next morning, he woke up & told my mom that he saw the stairway was ready.

My dad left peacefully to be with the Lord! My mother, together with all of us, accepted Jesus Christ as our Savior.

Because of my dad's sudden passing, the company underwent significant changes. Our family income had hugely reduced. Our livelihood was all altered.

My mother Ko Kim Kwan (高金寬) a.k.a (永珠嫂) Mrs. Que Chu, was only 48. As if the whole dark sky had fallen on her 烏天暗地!

Fi Luan, the eldest child, was twenty six and recently married, had to take over the great responsibility of helping my mother raise a family of four sisters and two brothers. I was only six years old.

My eldest brother and eldest sister had to oversee our share in the company. The second brother skipped school to take care of our store in Laoag. Agatona, my second sister, went & helped. The third and fourth sisters went to study at Hope Christian High School in Manila. Being the youngest, my auntie enrolled me in a Kindergarten School owned and operated by Miss Chu Ai Ko. My School was at Jose Abad Santos Street. My auntie's house was on Soler Street, which was a short distance from my school. Therefore, after class, my auntie would fetch me and bring me to her home.

When the Chinese Communist Party took over mainland China, my mother received a letter from the CCP government. The content of that official letter was inviting my mother to go to mainland China to take care of the deposits of my dad in the five big banks in China. (The amount must have been quite substantial that caught the party's attention to contact my mom). My mother did not know what to do. There was no one to guide or accompany her to go either. The Philippine government was in a solid political tie with the United States government. In addition to hearing many scary stories of what the new regime was doing, my mom painfully decided to forgo this very high & valuable invitation. At that same time, the Philippine government was using Japanese currency to pay us for the projects we completed for the Philippines. Thus, after the fall of the Japanese regime, these Japanese paper bills were useless, that I have sacks of them to play with my nieces.

Another catastrophe also added about that time. The entire commercial section of Laoag City got burned down. Our store burned down entirely, and our residence behind the store, gone.

All of us temporarily moved to stay with our cousin Eugenio in Pasuquin for a week. That was the first time I slept on a bamboo floor, and the chickens and pigs were underneath the crawling space below. Every morning I heard the piggy's oink and the roosters crow. It was quite an experience.

Chinese have a saying that goes: 禍不單行 meaning, misfortune does not walk alone was what my mother & our whole family had to face. Where could my mother find enough money to feed her growing family?

My mother was a person with bound-tiny-feet. In her time, a woman who had small tiny feet meant she could afford not to work outside for other people but stay home & take care of her own family. She also was not allowed to go for formal education. Amazingly though, mom could read and understand the entire Holy Bible in Traditional Chinese characters from Genesis to Revelation.

The Lord God proves Himself faithful and true, just as the Psalmist declares:

"A father to the fatherless, a defender of widows, is God in his holy dwelling." - Psalm 68:5

My mother was the pillar of our spiritual blessings. She was a woman of prayers, and she had great faith in God.

Our suppliers heard of what happened to us in Laoag. They rushed and asked how they could help us re-open our store ASAP. All of them offered special terms to support us. It was under such an accommodating atmosphere; our store came back to doing business. Our store was re-opened.

My mom's trust & gratitude to God had a burden to lead others to the Lord. She started a gospel mission point at home. Rev. Joseph Esther, Rev. Joseph Young, together with brothers & sisters in Christ, such as Miriam Go & Roland Jao, took turns driving all the way coming from Manila.

Rev. Joseph Esther

Rev. Joseph Young

Ted Ong Tiong Tian, the pastor, designated at Vigan United Evangelical Church of the Philippines with Elder Chua Se Hong, Chan Ban Siu, also drove up from Vigan to Laoag to help take care of the meetings every Saturday afternoon.

Elder Chua Se Hong is the father of Daniel Chua. He is also the father of Pastor Lazarus Chua, the concurrent senior pastor of UECP head church in Benavidez St., Manila. I would go around inviting neighbours & friends to the meetings. Here was how the gospel ministry in Laoag started.

Our Lord was blessing my mother. She had become a blessing to many, most especially to us, her children. In my mom's life journey, I could witness how my mother's unwavering trust in God truly paid off with God's ever faithfulness. She would always kneel before God and keep praying for all of us. She would also make sure that her entire family members attend church services regularly. Her heart is kept right with God. She left a significant spiritual example that has impacted my life.

Mom's motto in life is: "Try to do your best and let God take charge of everything else." Mom also strongly believes, "If God closes a door, He will open another one for a much better reason."

For mom, titling is a must. She would always remember to thank God for all His blessings upon herself and her family. Indeed this is very true in my life experiences. Whenever money is tight, but I have already committed to doing my duty, I would follow my mother's classic example and just do it. I have never gone short or run out of money.

Lessons Learned: Our God cares for those who care to honor Him in all aspects of life.

One spiritual lesson I see vividly from my mom is her concern for her children's walk with God.

While brother Liberato was running our business in Laoag, mom would always pray with him. Liberato would have Bible verses written & posted on the backside of the doors of his dresser. While he changed his clothes every morning to work and before going to bed, he would remember the Word of God. God accepted my mother's sincere devotion, Our business grew with God's bountiful blessings.

When my mom was in Laoag and I was with my other siblings in Manila, every morning around 5:00 am, Maria de Leon Bus Line's driver would knock at our door and deliver a basket of cooked chicken breast cutlets mom & sister Tai Guan prepared for us. It was so good. What a treat!

During summer, I would spend my school break in Laoag. I had fun following Tai Guan to the public market right across from our store to buy what we need for the day. Tai Guan would buy me anything I asked.

Whenever I think of Tai Guan, there is one thing that touched my heart so much that I can't forget, and I would need to share.

When Tai Guan found out that I was migrating, she cashed out all her life savings and told me to please keep it for Kendrick. I told her that I can't and won't take it. She quickly replied: "If you refuse to take this money, then just hold it for me for Kendrick." I could not hold back my tears whenever I recall how much she loved my family, especially my son Kendrick!

Backtrack to my summer break in Laoag, I enjoyed collecting blackbirds that sing, chicken of different breeds, especially those with reversed feathers. Each morning I would go to the cage to look for fresh eggs. I would wash these eggs, cracked, and mixed them with a trendy soft drink called Sarsi. In those days, people believe that this drink is full of nutrition. It tastes so good too.

Laoag is at the northwest tip of the Philippines. It has plenty of sharks in our ocean. We would buy new shark fins and hanged them to dry in our kitchen. When all these are dried up, mom will cook us shark fin soup. Mom was such a good cook. The soup was so yummy!

My mother was also into gardening. She had green thumbs. She would tell us to stay up till midnight, waiting for the flower she planted to bloom. The Lily would open precisely at midnight. She would be thrilled, looking at the beauty of God's creation.

I have five sisters; Betty passed away due to a lack of proper medication during the Japanese occupation. Betty was the youngest sister right before me. She would always protect & took good care of this baby brother. I enjoyed being everybody's favourite.

It had been my exciting pastime to play games with my sisters. One evening, while all my four sisters were sleeping, I tied up all of their ankles together. Thus, when one of them woke up, they all would have to wake simultaneously. How amusing! At any rate, all my siblings loved me so much, and they did not know how to complain.

Unlike other kids, I was not used to having any pocket money for school. So, I made myself toys to play. After Christmas, I collected the excess gun powder from my wooden pistol and tried to make a triangle firecracker. I used a hammer to smoothen the pocket. I foolishly pounded the firecracker. Suddenly a loud noise, "Boom," with lightning spark, blew off. The triangular firecracker exploded right in front of my face. My mother, with her small feet, speedily rushed to see what happened to me. She fell flat on her back, running down the stairs.

Without worrying about herself, she got up, called a taxi, and brought me to see a doctor. I stayed at the St. Luke's Hospital overnight. By God's love & mercy, the explosion did not blind my eyes, and mom did not break her spine. Amazing grace!

Each summer school break, I would help out in our store. Some of our customers pay all their bills weekly. So, every Saturday, I would bike around to collect their payments.

Batac is about 15 mins. drive from Laoag. Batac, Ilocos Norte is where President Ferdinand Marcos started his political carrier & campaign. President Ferdinand Marcos was our hero and still is our hero.

The Chua family was in the garlic & Virginia tobacco leaves. We supplied all the spare parts for the family's entire freight line. It was the first time in my life to see a building by pressing a security button; the whole floor would be locked up & caged. I was so amazed.

After I got married & had our son, Kendrick, Felix Q. Chua, the son of Hon, Andres Chua, asked me earnestly that he be Kendrick's godfather. What an honor

My Brother Liberato

With God's blessing, Liberato expanded our business to Manila. Liberato was a very brilliant businessman. In those years, we were one of the firsts to get into importing Japanese surplus. We supplied diesel truck engines to the builders of jeepneys. These world-known, very colourful passenger jeepneys with a stretch body that can sit sixteen or more passengers needed diesel truck engines for the power & smooth ride. Sarao was one of our customers. Our business was so good that we have a customs broker exclusively full time working for us.

Whenever Liberato saw a nice car, he would get it, give me the key & let me have it. He loved me so much and would give anything for my good.

We had a driver who was very tough looking. Most people would think that he was a bodyguard. Simeon would wash and polish our car every day. He even shined my shoes as bright and as clean as a clear mirror. Whenever I needed to travel a long distance, Simeon would be my driver. He was an excellent driver.

My brother paid him a monthly salary of 2,000 pesos. That was the salary going rate at that time. Also, my brother brought Simeon to the bank and opened a savings bank account for him. And every month, my brother would deposit for him another 1,000 pesos as his bonus. Simeon was so overjoyed with this gracious kindness from my brother.

My Brother Fi Luan

My eldest brother Fi Luan was in charge of purchasing for our construction company. We needed to stock up spare parts for cranes, tractors, tugboats, and other heavy equipment. Brother Fi Luan usually buys them from suppliers in Gandara Street, downtown Manila.

Fi Luan was 20 years senior to me, added to the fact that we both look more alike. People who saw us together would often ask my brother, "Is he your son?" Whenever I went out with him, he would buy us my favourite hot bun siopao and maki noodles for our afternoon snacks. Brother Fi Luan would always do his best to help me out when I needed him. When he went to pick up her daughter Ruby from School, he would also pick me up. There were times that I was too busy playing basketball or kicking shuttlecock after class. Unless he had a necessary appointment, he would patiently wait for me.

Brother Fi Luan enjoyed assembling radio and other electronic devices. He also liked mechanical. In the 60s, he started Que's Printing Press. He did all the technical and mechanical maintenance all by himself.

The printing press was printing boxes for auto parts manufacturers, labels for the paint factories and business invoices, tabletop, and the giant poster-size calendars. He also supplied all the labels for our recording company, The Vic Philippines Production.

Brother Fi Luan was the Secretary-General of The Que's Family Association. He had many friends in high social & political positions. He would help his friends solve their business problems from time to time, and he would never ask for anything in return. He was a person that would not abuse his connection.

When Annette and I migrated to Canada the following year, my parent-in-laws migrated. Soon, my mother also migrated.

After a few years, Fi Luan and his family also immigrated to Vancouver. We would often find time to be together.

Our Happy Video & Electronics Ltd. Was the authorized dealer of many primary audio and Video equipment brands. RCA, Sony, Panasonic, Sharp, Harmon Kardon, ProScan, Pioneer were among the product lines we carried. Being one of the top dealerships in North America, we were awarded many incentive trips from our suppliers.

One time Fi luan went with me to the RCA. Golden Gramophone Award trip. We were dressed up & acted like cowboys. He knew how to have fun and was such a great companion to be. When we were in Disneyland, we took the thrilling rides, a cannon log boat that would take the passengers up so high and dropped us down into a big splash of water. Brother Fi-Luan was in his sixties, and he enjoyed it so much more than I. Excitingly, he exclaimed: "Let's do it again!" Age is just a number for Fi Luan. He can adapt to any group anywhere and anytime.

Once, we were together with our god-brother, Jack Keh. We drove from Vancouver, went by Oregon Coast, stay in different hotels along the way. We tried different kinds of local cuisine while enjoying the scenic ocean view. We had so much fun and beautiful memories!

Another time we passed by Concord, California, to visit Jimmy & Susan Gaw. Jimmy was also a very active officer of the Young Professional Christian Fellowship of Grace Christian Church. The three of us acted like young kids having fun playing Nintendo games.

When Annette and I were opening our USANA business in the Philippines, we have to travel back and forth so often. Brother Fi Luan wanted to make our travel and lodging more convenient and more comfortable; he offered & insisted that we stay at his residence. He would bring me to all the social events that he was a member of and proudly introduce me to his friends.

My Eldest Sister

Juanita was the accountant of our company. Her husband, Leoncio Go Yulo, was the editor-in-chief of The World News and The United Daily News. He was also the director of The Philippine National Free Press. He was invited to Malacañang Palace regularly for meetings. He also represented the Filipino Chinese organizations going to Taiwan for government-sponsored events. He was very respected in the community.

After I have already migrated abroad, I would seek his help to connect me with some VIPs in the high places every time I returned to visit the Philippines. I had in my mind; I wanted to be a person that could help people solve their problems. I thought such work could be promising.

When I first requested him about this, he would reply to me with just "Um-um." When I asked the second time, he told me to return to the Philippines and do what I wanted to do. After I tried asking him the third time, he turned to my sister, who at the time happened to be seated beside me and told her what I wanted to do, and admitted that he refused to do so.

Leoncio had a genuine heart to help people in need. Whenever any organization needed him to connect them with the government's proper officials, he would go out of his way to assist without accepting any fee or money involved. He was such a man of integrity, and people loved him so much. I learned such a good lesson from my brother-in-law, Leoncio Go Yulo!

My Second Sister

Agatona was our family secretary; she would list down all our family's remarkable history for references. She had lovely handwriting, especially with the Chinese character scripts. Her writing, both in English and in Chinese calligraphy, is beautiful. Whenever there was a Chinese calligraphy contest at school, she would attain first place.

Whenever I return to visit the Philippines, she would hand a package of 20,000 pesos in cash and tell me: "This is for you, in case you need something during your stay." That's how much she cared for me. I regretted why I didn't do more for her while she was still with us.

I learned that time is so limited and precious. If I wanted to do something good, I must do it without delay. Time can't wait.

My Third Sister

Conchita was a housewife, and her husband, Jimmy Chua Chuan Bee. Jimmy was a real estate developer. He built many houses at BF Homes, and he also built my brother Fi Luan's house in Quezon City.

When I expanded my music recording business, I rented a floor for my office in Raon Street. The whole of Raon Street was the centre of the music industry. I approached Jimmy to help me do the renovation. He replied: "No problem." From the beginning to the end of the improvement, including the furniture and fixtures I needed, he quickly and efficiently did them for me.

My Fourth Sister

Naty is a domestic engineer and a church deacon. Her husband John was a chemist. His boss sent him to the USA for training. He was into making all kinds of snacks. He could, by just tasting, tells what was in the ingredient of any chips. He has become a master of food and seasonings. I enjoyed watching him cooking, baking, or smoking ham precisely the same way as the ones sold at supermarkets. John served in his company, faithfully, for many decades. Even after he has retired, his boss continued to ask him to go in and supervise the operation. His boss would not let go of him.

John liked to bring his wife & son Nathan out for food or drinks in the malls. Lately, he had been in and out of the hospital due to his poor health. He was a great father; Nathan missed him so much.

Lessons Learned: How beautiful and blessed when siblings lived in harmony!

Victor, The Youngest Sibling

In 1964, I graduated from Hope Christian High School. Luckily, I got accepted into the University of the Philippines. There I met Annette Lao, a graduate of Grace Christian High School. I took up Pre-Med while Annette pursued a degree in Commercial Fine Arts. As John Lennon and Paul McCartney of the Beatles wrote, "I saw her standing there," and I added, "I fell in love for the first time in my life."

After seven years of adjustment in an environment of sunshine, rain, and thunderstorms, our relationship matured, and we got married on June 6, 1971. Pastor Wesley Shaw of UECP, the father of Dr. Joseph Shao, officiated our marriage. My brother Filuan paid for our round table reception for 1000 guests for both of our families.

On May 5, 1973, God blessed us with our son, Kendrick Timothy Que. One time we brought Kendrick to Manila Bay, Luneta area, for some fresh air. A photographer who worked for an international advertising company offered us to take Ken's photo into his portfolio to promote their products.

Kendrick brought us a lot of happiness and blessings. We all love Kendrick so much. He was the apple of the whole Ques family eye. From Grandma Que to Fi Luan, Liberato, Juanita down to the youngest sister Naty. Every year, Annette organized parties for Ken's birthday. Our friends and relatives would come with their children to celebrate with us.

All the adults hold a thanksgiving service inside the house while the kids played games outside. Afterward, we all enjoyed the yummy buffet served.

After we migrated to Canada when Kendrick was seven years old, he went to Howard De Beck Elementary School, a public school in Richmond, British Columbia.

At that time, I tried to earn a stockbroker license, and I left work at 1:30 pm from Monday to Friday. Kendrick would walk home by himself while I rush home to open the door for him. Kendrick would keep himself busy in some ways. I recall that I tried to carry him one time, and I found him heavier than usual. Later on, I found out that he collected stones and put them inside his jacket.

Kendrick liked to play with Lego. He built airplanes, ships, cars, and houses, and these were among his favourites. When his friends came to play with him, Ken will bring out all his toys to share. When Ken went to play with his friend at his house, his friend would not share his toys with Kendrick. So Ken came home and asked me why his friend was like that.

When Kendrick graduated from Richmond high school, he got into the University of British Columbia. UBC is one school that is very competitive to get in. Kendrick told me that it was not hard because he got a scholarship to attend in the fall. It was a surprise to me because I prepared to pay for his tuition in full. I was mad, and I ask him to go and get me proof of his scholarship. I gave him one week to comply. I also told him I do not need the money; I only wanted the truth. He came back with the confirmation. Then I asked him why he did not claim the scholarship. Kendrick's answer was, "I let go of my scholarship for those who need it more than me." I praise God for such a good-hearted son!

Ken is good in science, biology, and math and he wanted to be a medical doctor. After two years at UBC, he approached me one day asking if he can go to the U.S. to continue his education. I asked why. This was Ken's reply: "Dad, in your hiring, if there are two competing for the job opening. One is a graduate from UBC, and the other is a graduate from Harvard, Stanford, or Boston U or an Ivy League; which one would you hire?" I said UBC. He continued to bug me. I started thinking about what Kendrick was asking. It was not a new car. It was about his education, his future, and his life! So, I told him to start searching for a school that will accept him.

My son prayed so hard and sent out applications to his selected schools.

He was accepted into Boston University and graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Biology and Microbiology.

Kendrick came back to help me in our business. He was outstanding in Sales. After a year of assisting me in our store, he asked me to give him another chance to pursue his dream to become a Medical doctor.

This time I went with him to Boston. Ken's adviser Dr. O' Brian told us about the newly opened BU Questrom School of Business. Hence Kendrick took that opportunity and completed Master of Business Administration (M.B.A) with a concentration in Healthcare Finance. Annette & I were so proud to attend his Master degrees graduating ceremony at Boston.

At that moment, my mother was 96, and her health began to deteriorate.

Kendrick heard about his grandma's health and came back to see her. My mother, although she was sick but was very happy to see her favorite grandson. Grandma prays for him about his future.

I thank the Lord that Kendrick was able to pursue his career in the United States. It was during an internship with his godmother Dr. Helen Hsu, who was a high-risk OB/GYN doctor at Baylor Hospital in Houston, where he met Jenevieve, and together they would embark on a courtship that led to them starting a family together.

Jenevieve Nguyen, graduated from Cornell University, was interning at the same hospital Kendrick spent his summer in 1994.

In 2001, they were married in Sacramento, California. The wedding was very memorable wherein all friends and relatives from all over the world attended. Together they have three lovely children.. Charlotte Love, Isaiah Peace and Audrey Joy. They currently reside at Granite Bay, California where Kendrick is the Chief Executive Officer of River City Medical Group.

Lao Han Eng and Ong Song Luan

Lao Han Eng, my father-in-law, retired from La Suerte Cigar & Cigarette Factory. He and my mother-in-law Ong Song Luan migrated to Canada a couple of years after we migrated.

My father-in-law was a very strict and no-nonsense person. He was an expert in marketing. On the other hand, my Mother-in-law was a soft-spoken and intelligent educator and a very good cook. She would serve all the best food, especially the bird's nest soup, for me. She and I got along very well.

Annette once asked her, why are you serving all the best food for Victor and here she replied... "gong cha bo-a, if I treat Victor well, then he will treat you good too."

My mother-in-law cooked the best food, and my father-in-law and I very often discussed and compared technics in marketing. They loved us both very much, and we missed them very much.

Psalm 121

¹ I lift up my eyes to the mountains—where does my help come from?

² My help comes from the LORD, the Maker of heaven and earth.

³ He will not let your foot slip—he who watches over you will not slumber;

⁴ Indeed, he who watches over Israel will neither slumber nor sleep.

⁵ The LORD watches over you—the LORD is your shade at your right hand;

⁶ The sun will not harm you by day, nor the moon by night.

⁷ The LORD will keep you from all harm— He will watch over your life;

⁸ The LORD will watch over your coming and going both now and forevermore.
